HOWARD PARK SAUVIGNON BLANC 2008

“Somewhat smoky and distinctly herbal, the 2008 reveals dusty scents of lemon butter and green pea, leading into a very soft, generously rounded, juicy palate. Texturally more interesting than most, with genuine mid-palate depth, it offers rich flavours of mineral accented lemon herbs, finishing with a bright extract of chiselled acidity and lasting notes of citrus. Wood fermentation has resulted in a wine with a harmonious interplay of oak and restrained primary fruit characters.

Clearly Western Australia’s dominating this category right now, and its fine winemaking pedigree may soon see Howard Park’s Sauvignon Blanc rated amongst the elite. Drink to 2010.”
